

Cassels Brock Inks Enterprise Agreement with KIIAC

Minneapolis – (August 15, 2011) -- Signaling the continued expansion of KIIAC LLC products and services into the legal marketplace, KIIAC President and CEO Kingsley Martin has announced Cassels Brock & Blackwell LLP as the latest addition to the growing list of KIIAC clients.

At the core of KIIAC's offerings is a patented, highly-innovative contract analysis engine which provides law firms and corporate law offices with model legal documents and the ability to create and maintain document templates and clause libraries specific to their needs.

“In these times of increased competition, pressure on rates, and demand from corporate counsel for value, KIIAC's advanced software tools can provide both high quality and efficiency,” explains Martin. “We are looking forward to delivering Cassels Brock that cutting-edge productivity.”

KIIAC will provide Toronto-based Cassels Brock with software and services to cost-effectively develop high quality document automation systems for the entire firm. Many law firms have long sought to create—and maintain—precedent system, but past efforts have proven to be too expensive and non-sustainable. kiiac software is the first--and only--contract analysis technology that can automatically establish contract standards and drafting templates.

“At Cassels Brock, our aim is to provide the best in legal practice via our 200 plus lawyers here in Canada and throughout the world,” noted Cassels Brock's John Gillies, Director of Practice Support. “Through the KIIAC system, we will be able to further our core practice areas of corporate and commercial law, mergers and acquisitions, securities and corporate finance, tax, intellectual property, real estate, international business and government relations efficiently and effectively.” Gillies also noted that “the software also allows firms to understand the quality of their current documents and to measure the improvement in the quality of their drafting over time.”

KIIAC LLC (www.kiiac.com) is the leading technology innovator in the field of transactional practice.

Their patented contract analysis engine analyzes any group of contracts and automatically determines what clauses they contain, how those clauses are organized, and the range of standard and non-standard language used in each clause, thus providing model legal documents containing standard and alternative provisions for use by lawyers in initial drafting and during subsequent reviews. These standards can be used to benchmark a document to determine how it compares to a selected standard, which clauses diverge, and which clauses may be missing. Moreover, the software can suggest recommended language for any clause.
